Dear Jim,

I have just received the letters both you and my mom have written.

I am glad that Steve and Patricia have found meaning and happiness in each other. I am certain that the P.L. is a burgeoning society where Steve's maverick brilliance will find a sure outlet. I know Patricia enjoyed carpentry and construction and will be able to put her talents to use there as well. Please give to both, my deep felt best wishes, and felt and still feel very close to them.

As for me, in spite of what I said in my past letter, and having thought it out, I bear her no hard feelings. It is immaterial whether she admits or denies the truth of my past allegation. And I'm certain she is aware, our relationship is over. I am, however, somewhat puzzled about her feelings of rejection, inasmuch as it was she who left me and not vice versa.

Please remind my mother that her statement about Clyde have had absolutely no effect upon me, and she should full no guilt about them.

Also, the reason why I have not called is that I thought you did not wish to personally communicate, for justifiable reason, to those who have left. I will gladly call you at your convenience. In your next letter please state the date and time you wish me to call, and I shall do so.

Please are and hope you are aware I feel badly about my abrupt departure, and about the problem it has caused you, but I shall not return.

Your
Mike Corbett

P.S. I am distraught to hear about the incident in New York, & truly hope harm came of it.
